

To Whom it may concern

Letter on behalf of Mr David Perez

I have known David Perez for many years, since he was a child, and carefully followed his steps toward the University Years.

David possesses a rare but very mature solid skill for his age that started when he was practicing sailing as a child and continued till the present days. His interpersonal and communication skills allowed him to develop productive relationships with former (from school) and current students (from University), and is a fact that everybody that knows him is impressed by his work ethic and consistent performance.

With no doubt he is a Leader with deep analytical skills to diagnose problems and devise viable solutions, and able to work under pressure, either alone or as part of a Team. He is also very flexible and willing to work on any job/project that is assigned to him, from the most humble one up to one with more responsibilities (if and when required)

I recommend him for employment without reservation. He, with no doubt will be a tremendous asset for any Company. Please, if further information required do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely
